About Tiffany

Tiffany Brenae is an author, speaker and the creator of Levels, a framework that helps women who build see the patterns holding them in place and become who their next level requires.

Raised in a small town in Louisiana, she started in modeling and as an executive assistant to a serial entrepreneur. Life became her teacher. Over more than ten years she has helped build and market ventures across industries, and she founded Syrvera, a Dallas strategy firm for founders. She is the author of Unbreakable Grace.

Since 2019 she has led youth leadership programs with several nonprofits. Today she is Program Director of Elevate Youth Leadership Academy.

Talks

SIGNATURE TALK

Next Level: What it really takes to grow into what you're building

For founders, leaders and mixed audiences. Why the business is rarely the bottleneck, and how the person grows first.

What level are you living on?

The five levels women who build move through, and how to tell which one you're on.

Safe to succeed

Why so many women pull back right when things start going well, and how to stay.

Grieve who you were

The step most personal growth skips, and why change doesn't stick without it.

Life was my teacher

From a small town in Louisiana to Dallas. Lessons no classroom could teach, learned by building, breaking and building again.

Leadership for the next generation

Building confidence, purpose and leadership in young people.
